REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

This Document Relates to:

Harold Moss, et al. v. Bayer Corp., et al.
(Plaintiff Margaret Kedzierski only)

Case No. 06-1554

No appearance on behalf of Plaintiff Margaret Kedzierski

Susan Weber and James Mizgala, Esqs. on behalf of Defendant Bayer Corporation

SUSAN RICHARD NELSON, United States Magistrate Judge

The above-entitled matter comes before the undersigned United States Magistrate Judge on Defendant Bayer Corporation's Motion for Discovery Sanctions against Plaintiff Margaret Kedzierski (Doc. No. 30). This matter has been referred to the undersigned for a Report and Recommendation pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636 and D. Minn. LR 72.1.

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendant Bayer Corporation ("Bayer") moves this Court to dismiss this action with prejudice as a sanction under PTO 149 and Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 37(b)(2)(C) and 37(d) for Plaintiff's failure to appear at her duly noticed deposition on June 6, 2007, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Section I.A.2 of PTO 149 provides, in relevant part:

d. Except for good cause shown, if a Plaintiff fails to appear for his/her scheduled deposition, such Plaintiff's claims will be dismissed with prejudice.

- e. If a party or its counsel does not intend to appear for a deposition, counsel for that party must provide written notice to the attorney who noticed the deposition at least 24 hours before the deposition is scheduled to commence. Absent a showing of good cause, counsel for a non-appearing party who fails to provide this notice will be liable for the fees of the court reporter.

On May 25, 2007, fully consistent with PTO 149, Defendant Bayer served a Notice of Deposition of Plaintiff Margaret Kedzierski upon Plaintiff's counsel of record to be taken on June 6, 2007, at the offices of Michael Best & Friedrich LLP in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Having received no written notice that Plaintiff did not intend to appear, the deposition went forward as noticed. On the day of the deposition, Plaintiff's counsel appeared, but Plaintiff did not. Bayer created a record documenting Plaintiff's failure to appear. Fees for the court reporter's services totaled $94.00.

II. DISCUSSION

Bayer argues that Plaintiff willfully violated PTO 149, which established mandatory procedures for case-specific discovery, and that Bayer was substantially prejudiced by Plaintiff's failure to appear for her deposition. Bayer specifically contends that Plaintiff's non-attendance at the deposition prevented it from eliciting critical factual testimony on a wide range of topics such as whether Plaintiff ever used Baycol; the nature, extent, and potential causes of Plaintiff's alleged injuries; and the extent of any damages. Further, Bayer submits that Plaintiff's deliberate failure to attend her deposition demonstrates a lack of interest in this case and abandonment of her claims. Plaintiff did not respond to Bayer's motion.

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 37 provides courts with broad discretion to impose sanctions for failure to comply with discovery orders, including the ultimate sanction of dismissal with prejudice. In pertinent part, the rule states that “[i]f a party . . . fails to obey an order to provide or permit discovery, including an order made under subdivision (a) of this rule . . . the court in which the action is pending may make such orders in regard to the failure as are just, [including] an order . . . dismissing the action or proceeding or any part thereof.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(b)(2)(C).

In the Eighth Circuit, dismissal may be considered as a sanction only where there is an order compelling discovery, willful violation of that order, and prejudice to the opposing party. Keefer v. Provident Life & Accident Ins. Co., 238 F.3d 937, 940 (8th Cir. 2000) (citation omitted). While a district court has discretion to impose discovery sanctions, such sanctions must be just and specifically related to the claim at issue. Id. (citations omitted). Before imposing dismissal, a court must consider whether a lesser sanction is appropriate under the circumstances, but need not impose the least onerous sanction available. Id. (citations omitted). The Court notes that the sanction of dismissal has been found appropriate in similar Baycol matters. See, e.g., Toles v. Bayer Corp., Civ. No. 03-1174 (MJD/SRN), slip. op. at 1-2 (D. Minn. Apr. 26, 2007).

In the present case, PTO 149 specifically and clearly calls for the dismissal of an action if a plaintiff fails to appear for his or her deposition. Further, the Court finds that Bayer has shown the requisite prejudice. It is undisputed that Bayer is entitled to discover fundamental facts regarding usage of Baycol, injuries, and damages by way of deposition. Plaintiff’s willful failure to appear at her deposition, without any notice to Bayer, makes it virtually impossible for Bayer to prepare an adequate defense to her claims. Hence, a sanction of dismissal of Plaintiff’s claims is appropriate under these circumstances.

This Court must consider, of course, whether a lesser sanction against Plaintiff will cure the prejudice to Bayer. However, because Plaintiff saw fit to ignore the deposition notice and has demonstrated a complete lack of interest in this case, the Court finds, in its discretion, that any lesser sanction would be futile. It is therefore recommended that Bayer's motion for dismissal be granted.

Section I.A.2.e of PTO 149 provides that, absent a showing of good cause, counsel for a non-appearing party who fails to provide notice to Bayer's counsel that Plaintiff may not appear for his or her deposition will be liable for the fees of the court reporter. PTO 149 places the burden on Plaintiff's counsel to demonstrate good cause to avoid liability for the fees, and Plaintiff's counsel has failed to do so.

Accordingly, based on all the files, records, and proceedings herein, IT IS HEREBY RECOMMENDED that:

1. Defendant Bayer Corporation's Motion for Discovery Sanctions against Plaintiff Margaret Kedzierski (Doc. No. 30) be GRANTED;
2. Plaintiff Margaret Kedzierski's claims be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE; and
3. Plaintiff's counsel be required to pay the sum of $94.00 to Bayer Corporation within 10 days of the District Court's Order should the District Court adopt this Report and Recommendation.

Dated: August 2, 2007
